

THE MASK

The mask you wore on your face today
was transparent,
at least to my eyes,
and I saw right through it...
The mask you wear,
makes it easy for you, doesn't it?
Nobody knows you.
It's not real, and not true.
It's something you should not do.
But, with the mask evolves a story
of your wonderful life...
Whatever you wish to be, just say it and act.
But...as I look in the mirror,
the reflection so clearly shows that I am, no longer
"The Mask Wearer"

Title: The Mask
Subject: World Tribune 03/26/99 n.3235 p.10 WT990326p10
Author: Melanie Sarcedo
Keywords: Mask Melanie Poetry Sarcedo